

SCAVOLINI

1961 <Y>

"Our company was founded in 1961 on the initiative of my father Valter and my uncle Elvino, who in a few years transformed a small company for craft production of kitchens into one of the most important Italian manufacturing companies," explains Fabiana Scavolini, CEO of Scavolini.

"For over 60 years we are among the leading Italian manufacturers in the sector and among the main exporters of sectional kitchens. A significant fact, worth stressing in a segment such as kitchens and an extremely important milestone, achieved partly through a strategy of internationalization. Our principal markets are the United States, Russia, the Far East, China and again Europe and France. Then, with the recent new openings in China, Australia, Japan and France, we've further expanded our network, consolidating a project of international growth we began several years ago." Three stages that marked the brand's evolution by expanding its offering for a "total home look": the introduction of proposals for the bathroom in 2012, the living room in 2015 and, in 2019, for the walk-in closet. It has achieved all this while maintaining production in Italy and enhancing the value of the artistic-craft mastery of the Pesaro industrial district. "We produce our kitchens in Italy, because it enables us to control and guarantee the quality of our products by closely overseeing the production processes. We firmly believe that these territorial distinctions are the strength of the district, a common heritage to be protected and handed down to future generations," Fabiana Scavolini emphasizes.

>>

MONTELABBATE <PU>

178 — 179

SCAVOLINI

1— Production plant at Scavolini's HQ in Montelabbate (PU)
 2— Scavolini Headquarter in Montelabbate (PU)
 3— Formalia kitchen by Scavolini, designed by Vittore Niuoli, featuring the Status Wall System: the open modular structure is integrated into the kitchen project, enhancing the interplay of symmetries and promoting the concept of "all visible".
 4— Formalia kitchen by Scavolini, design Vittore Niuoli. The gulf-shaped composition is characterized by doors in PET Pioggia on which is positioned the metal handle with titanium profile and Status wall system in black.
 5— Formalia bathroom by Scavolini, design Vittore Niuoli, characterized by doors in PET Pioggia.
 6— Formalia living area solution by Scavolini, design Vittore Niuoli, with matt lacquered bases and top in Verde Ottanio matt glass.
 Formalia bathroom by Scavolini, design Vittore Niuoli with Prestige white matt lacquered doors and Status wall system acting as a partition in Rust finish.

Scavolini has always believed in the importance of sustainability and environmental protection. "Our kitchens have obtained Cosmob Qualitas Praemium certification: Indoor Hi-Quality which certifies low VOC emissions." Furthermore, for kitchen structures Scavolini does even more by using the F**** Ecological certification with the lowest formaldehyde materials. This sustainable approach permeates the whole company, which uses only green energy produced from renewable sources. "In a context of ecological transition based on the ethics of responsibility, we have chosen to adopt a sustainable approach and embrace the concept of the circular economy by recently obtaining the CQP certification of product circularity issued by the Cosmob certification body. With a view to increasingly green development, in 2019 we started a study of the circularity of our products and today, at the end of the path, we have obtained two certifications – one for the kitchen and living room and another for the bathroom – that attest to the 96% circularity of our products. This year, too, we obtained the coveted FSC®-C168055 certification, the acronym of the Forest Stewardship Council. The international certification is based on the assignment of the Chain of Custody (CoC), which certifies the traceability of cellulose-based materials, guaranteeing their origin from forests managed in full respect of environmental and social values and in economically sustainable ways." For its future projects, the company aims to carry out a development and enhancement plan for the retail channel with the opening of new stores. "To date we are present with over 300 stores abroad and the prospect is to open new exhibition spaces in the near future to increasingly strengthen our presence across the territory. Since the beginning of 2021 we have expanded widely in France with two openings in Paris, one in Strasbourg and also in the Brittany region." And for novelties, it focuses on the Formalia project, a collection for the kitchen, living room and bathroom designed by Vittore Niuoli, which reinterprets the "home system" through furniture integrated by function. It is also featured in the TV commercial "60 Years Together" celebrating the company's important anniversary. "In April we also premiered Diesel Get Together Kitchen and Misfives Bathroom: the new project created in collaboration with Diesel Living that conveys a message of hope and inclusiveness and works on blocks of color and materials that hybridize the kitchen with the living room, securing the fluidity of interiors." To celebrate its sixtieth anniversary, Scavolini will be the protagonist of important initiatives over the next few months with the presentation of other innovations. "We will focus in future on expanding our offering, including services, and on innovation in products, materials and finishes, to continue to anticipate trends and respond to new needs."

180 — 181